BRIEF HISTORY
OF
OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY

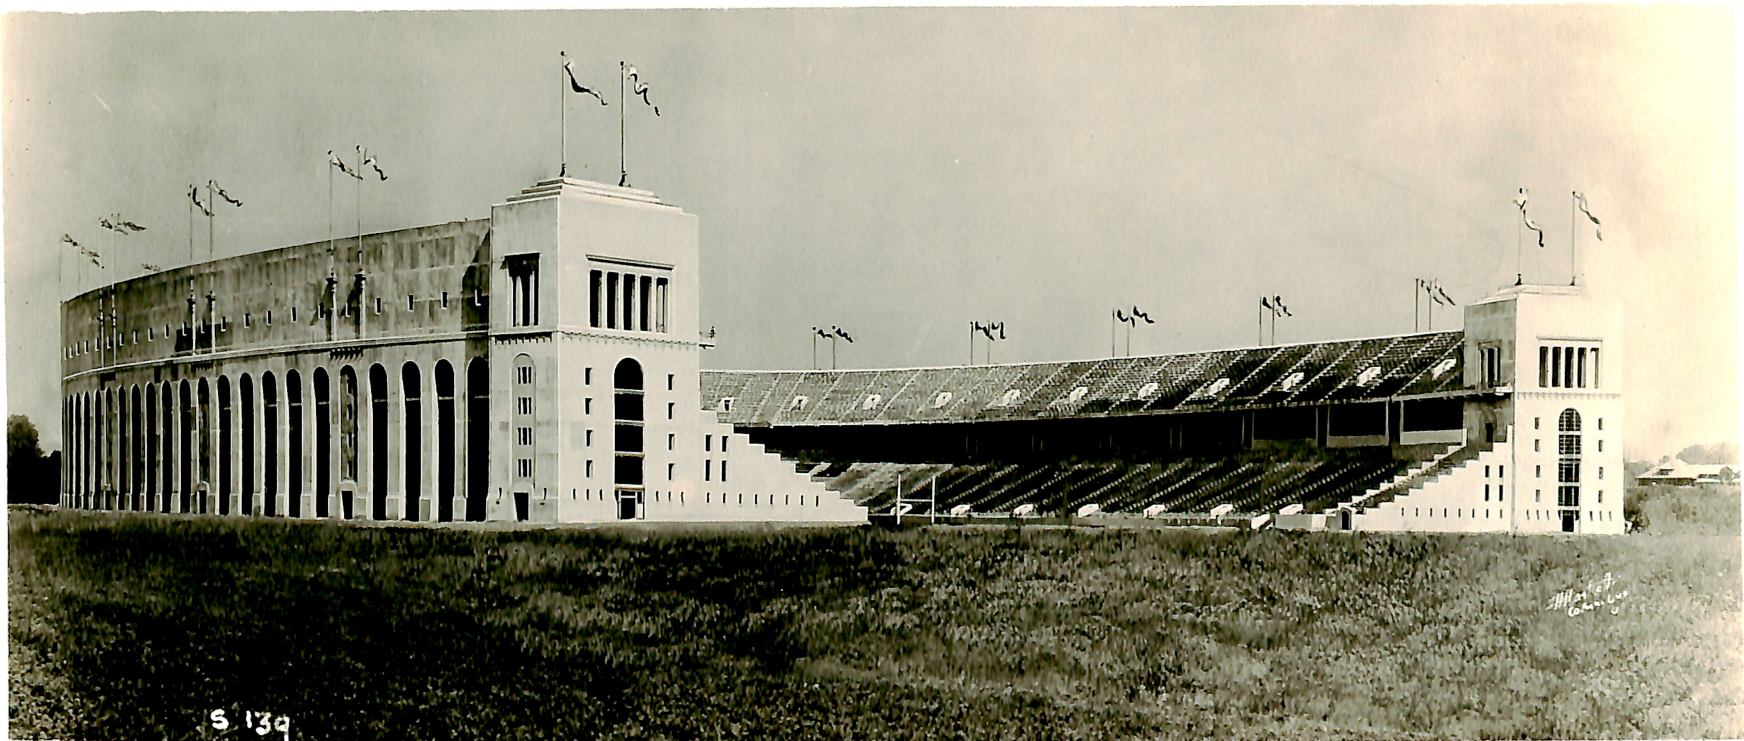

The Ohio State University, founded 1870, is the largest university in the State of Ohio, and ranks sixth in size in the United States, and fourth among State Universities. The total enrollment is over 8,000.

The University is located in the northern part of the city of Columbus. The campus and farm lands cover seven hundred and fifty acres. There are thirty six buildings and four residences on the campus, the total value of the land and buildings is over eight million dollars. The Ohio State University is a part of the educational facilities maintained by the state.

There are eleven separate colleges and a graduate school, each under the administration of a Dean and college Faculty. The various colleges are:

College of Agriculture	Graduate School
College of Arts, Philosophy & Science	College of Engineering
College of Commerce & Journalism	College of Homeopathic Medicine
College of Dentistry	College of Law
College of Education	College of Medicine
	College of Veterinary Medicine

There are sixty-one social and professional fraternities, and eighteen sororities. The students support several musical and dramatic organization, as well as many other major and minor activities. The University is rich with tradition carefully observed. In athletics Ohio State is progressive, opening its new stadium with a seating capacity of 63,000 in the fall of 1922.

— THE OHIO STADIUM —

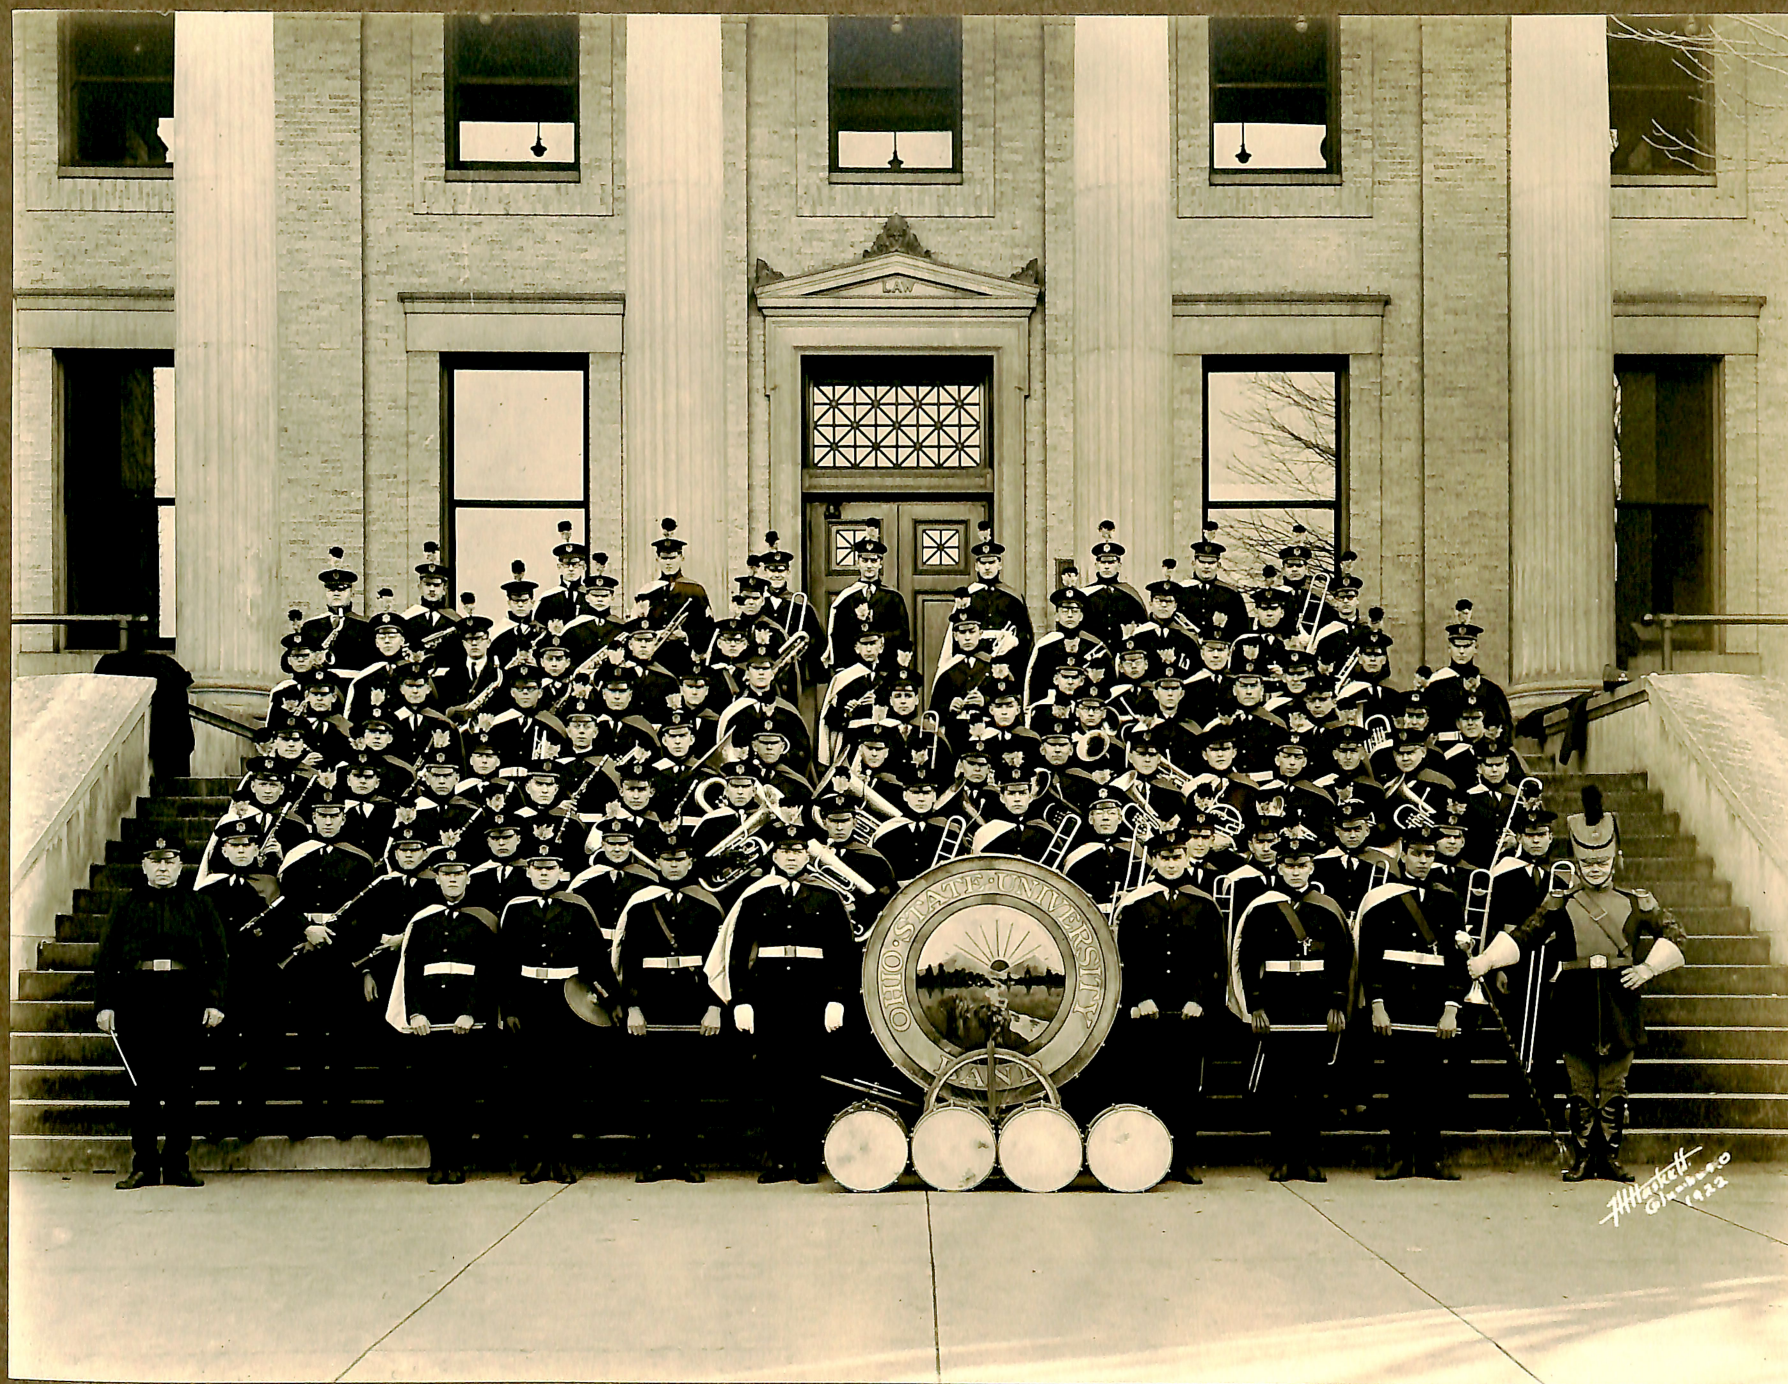

THE OHIO STATE UNIVERSITY BAND

The first record of a student band at the University dates back to the year 1880 when four students were included in its membership. From that time on, the band has grown steadily until its membership now consists of one hundred pieces and is rated as one of the best bands in the United States. We have a capable musician Director and a student Director.

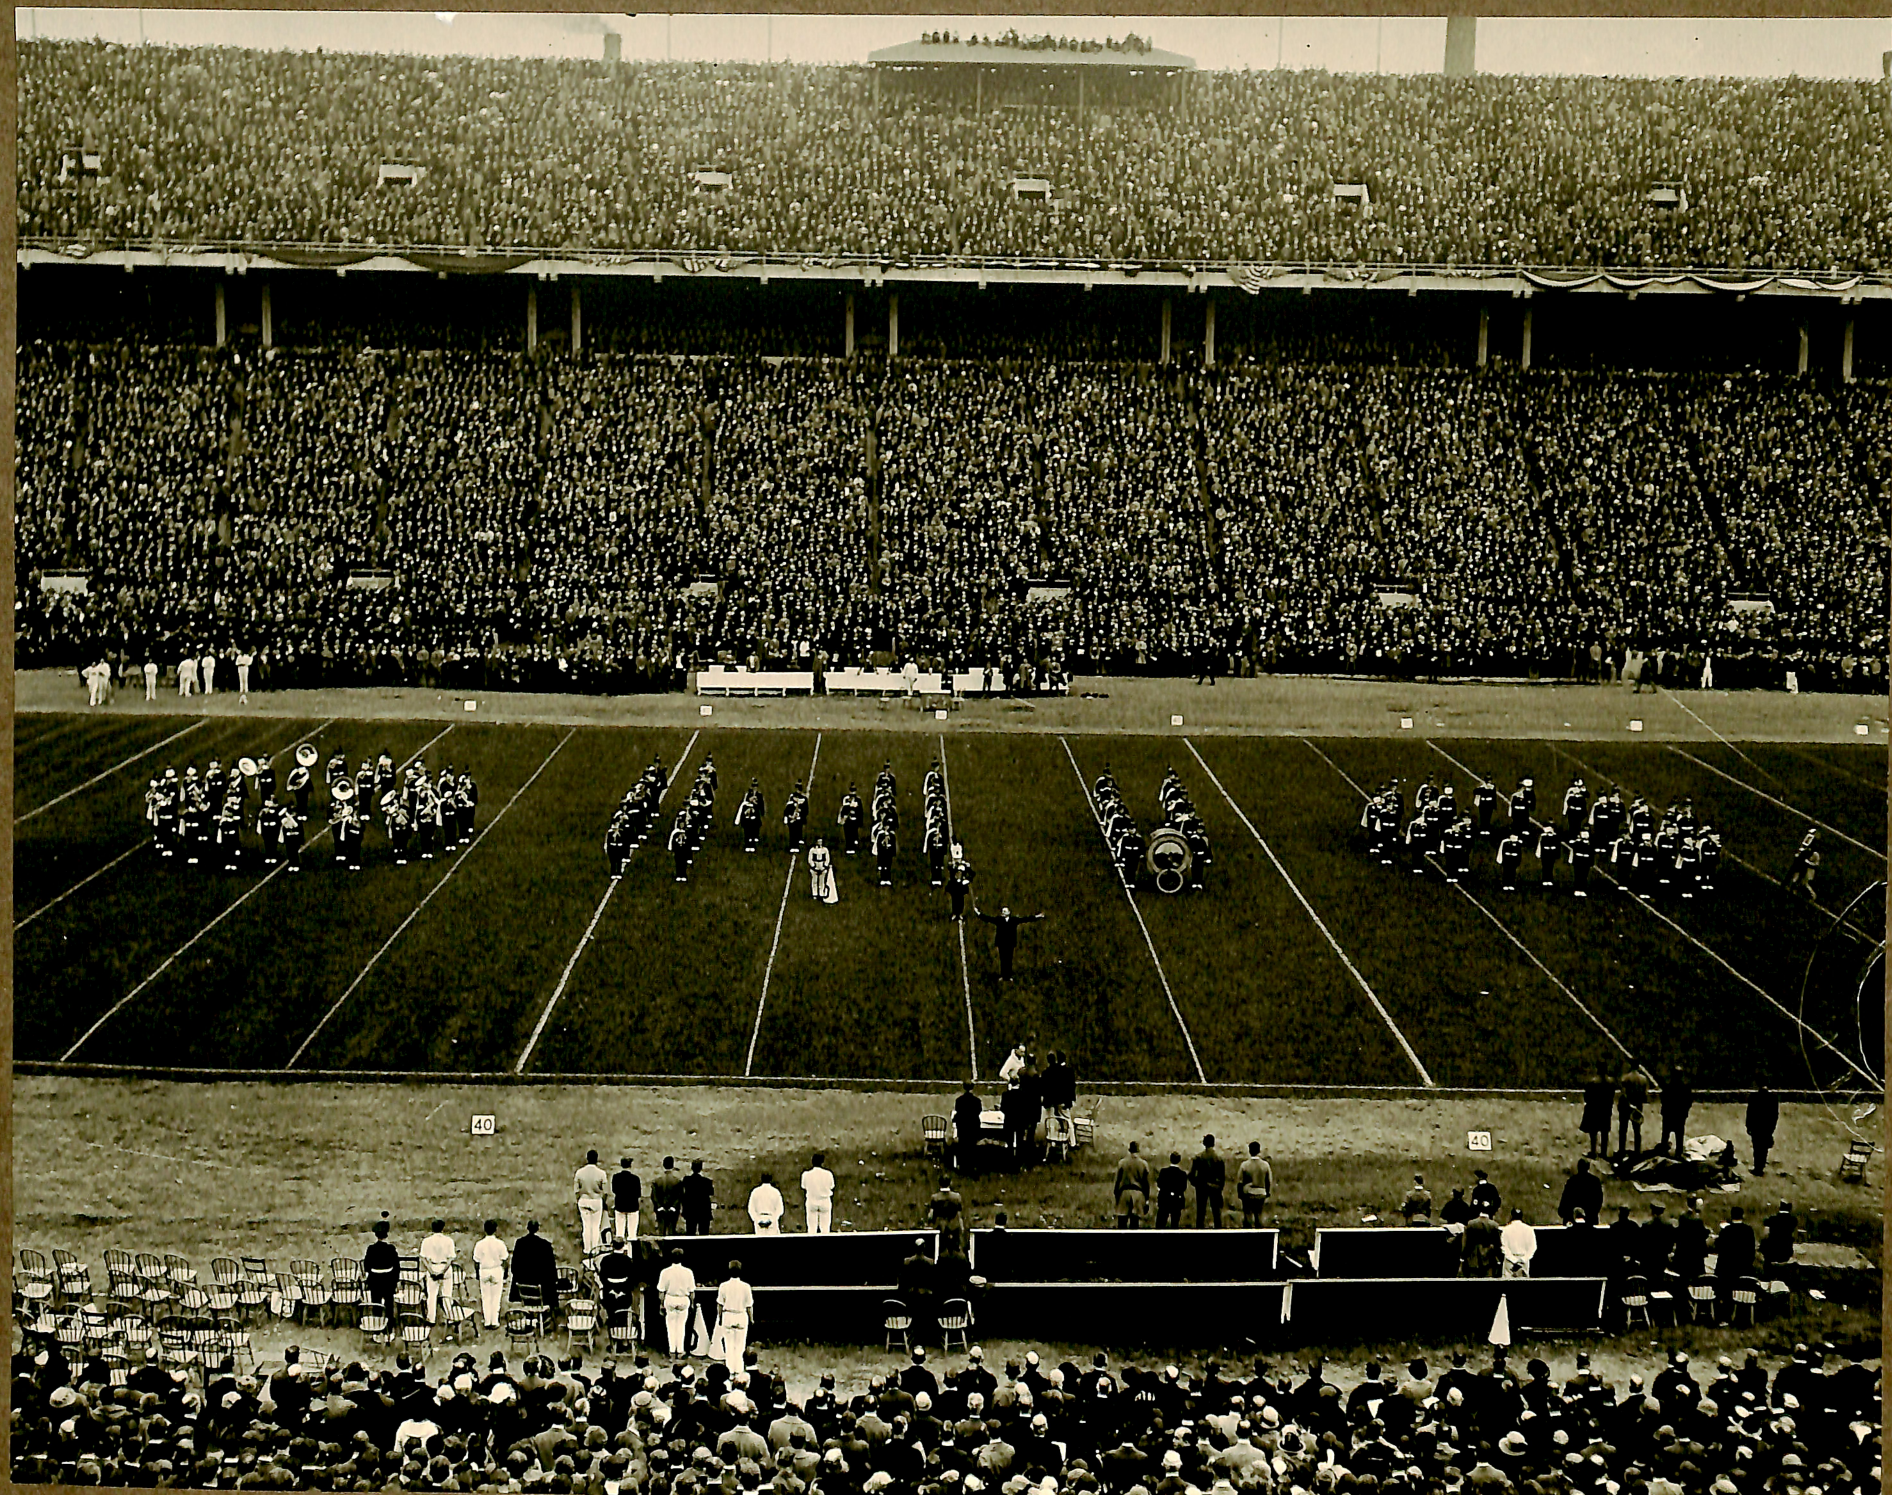

The Band is self-supporting from concerts and dances which are given occasionally. The Athletic Department pays the expenses of the Band on the trips with the football team.

The Band is composed of the best musical talent in the University, tryouts being held every year and only the best qualified being chosen.

The Band plays for all Athletic events, being sent with the football teams on its out of town games. Also plays for Military formations and represents the University on concert tours that embrace practically every large city in the state.
